From ancient hilltop towns to seaports, Roman cobbled streets to old castles, Croatia is the perfect holiday setting for anyone seeking something special and offers excellent value for money. Split is a truly Mediterranean metropolis, it is a place of great culture and historical interest which blends the old with the new and makes it into an exciting city.

Vodice, a lovely coastal town is a typical Croatian seaside town with old stone houses, churches and open squares leading down to a lively marina and promenade where fishing boats bobble in clear waters and visitors stroll among a wide selection of waterfront bars, cafes and restaurants where you can taste Croatian cuisine (fish, mussels, crabs, pasta, traditional dishes) and wines. As of yet, Vodice is not overly commercialized or touristy and is ideal for those looking for a more traditional and relaxed holiday.

Hvar: To the south of Brac lies the island of Hvar, the longest island in the Adriatic famed for its lavender-scented air, olive groves and vineyards - which produce 47 varieties of wine - all surrounded by a warm, blue sea. This picturesque island holds the record for the greatest number of sunny days per year and has many beautiful sandy and pebbled beaches. Known as the 'Madeira of the Adriatic', it is one of the most beautiful islands in the world.

Hvar Town is a charming idyll that has preserved many of its impressive Venetian buildings from the time when it was a strategic staging post along the trade routes to Constantinople in the East. Built of beautiful white stone, among its highlights are the oldest community theatre (founded in 1612) in Europe, a Renaissance Cathedral and several late Gothic buildings. A lively town with plenty of shops, bars & restaurants.
